

Tricorn hat made of felt with a flamboyant feather.

Dress coat of thick velvet edged with gold braid to impress enemies. This was probably stolen from a rich merchantman.

Lightweight sword or cutlass, ideal for hand-to-hand combat.

Bandolier with several brace of pistols, all primed and loaded. Necessary, as each pistol would take time to reload.

*D*ressed in the height of fashion for the time, this late seventeenth-century pirate captain combines dash and daring in every line.

Sturdy knee breeches fastened with colourful garters.

Colourful, fringed sash in which several throwing knives could be stowed.

Buckled shoes.

Woollen stockings worn with breeches could be quickly changed if wet.

The cutlass could inflict fearsome wounds on enemies.

